Day off

From comments in the press across the country it is now apparent that the people of Canada had on May 18th not a holiday—holidays are intended to mark or commemorate something—but a day off. Coming on a Monday, by order of a Parliament which seems to care little for the nation's dignity, May 24th, Victoria Day, was celebrated on May 18th simply to make a long week-end, which, as always, resulted in a depressing harvest of injury and death.

Patriotic observances were few and far between. Fireworks were let off (May 24th is the traditional fireworks day in the east) but not in any spirit of rejoicing or pride. They were purchased because the stores happened to feature them and were let off because they happened to make a loud noise. Beer parlors were crowded with people who had nothing in particular to do, and nowhere in particular to go. Long lines of people stood in front of movie houses who have been encouraged to believe that history, as Henry Ford put it, is bunk. Especially Canada's history.

Why should they not believe it when historical symbols and loyalties are juggled around by politicians anxious to grab off a few votes? It would not surprise us if one or other of the parties, or perhaps all of them, promised in the coming election campaign to do the same thing with Dominion Day that they have done with Victoria Day—to make it always come on a Monday, and thus to take away such meaning as it has left. The commercialization of Christmas is approaching the point where even it might be made the nearest Monday before December 25th, with New Year's Day rigged accordingly. From the junking of history, it is not a long step toward the junking of religion.

What is being established is that every holiday, so-called, must consist of three days—Saturday, Sunday and Monday—thus giving people the opportunity to enjoy themselves thoroughly, as enjoyment is now understood; and to return to work (if they survive) in a state of semi-exhaustion. This makes for pleasure, and no doubt for profit, but it does not make for patriotism, which is the most essential element in any nation's survival.

A time will come, as it has come before, when Canadians will be asked to make great sacrifices for their country. The people who do the asking may wish, then, that their predecessors had treated national holidays a little less casually; and had encouraged people to associate them with something a little more dignified than smashed cars and hangovers.

Palmer Memorial Scholarship

The policy of this newspaper is to ignore all appeals for financial support or publicity from all organizations, no matter how worthy, that do not have a local committee. However, we find ourselves impelled to ignore this rule in the current case of the "Palmer Memorial Scholarship."

"The orchard trees in the Okanagan Valley, the workers and the fields themselves will witness that his science has been abundantly fruitful." This is a quotation from the citation to the late Dr. R. C. "Dick" Palmer, former head of the Summerland experimental station, when in May of 1946 he was awarded the degree of D.Sc. at the University of British Columbia.

The citation expresses the appreciation which so many held for the man and his labors, and is a fitting commentary on another and recent development, the decision by a group of men in all parts of the province to develop what is to be known as the "Palmer Memorial Scholarship."

In memory of this man who died on March 25th of this year, leaving behind him a record as an eminent horticulturist, the scholarship will provide, in perpetuity, aid for deserving students.

The Courier urges widespread and generous support for this cause, which will at the same time establish a memorial to a fine man, and help in the establishment of other fine names in the future.

Perhaps our best summary would be in the assertion that the scholarship would be what "Dick" Palmer himself would have most desired.

Local students receive awards at graduation

Graduation exercises Friday afternoon honored 70 students who had been outstanding the past year, 50 in extra-curricular activities and 20 in academics.

A highlight of the presentations was the awarding of the Don Butcher Memorial Trophy, by Mrs. C. S. Butcher, in memory of her son who was killed in an air crash in April. Don Butcher, a graduate of KJHS, was valedictorian for the class of 1949-50. Winners of the award were Don Gillespie and Bruce Butcher, a brother of Don Butcher, who tied in points for the boy athlete of the year.

The trophy for the girl athlete of the year was captured by Lois Underhill. In making the presentation, Mrs. E. E. Ashley revealed that the choice gave her as great a pleasure as it did just three years ago when the trophy was first awarded to Doreen Underhill, a sister of this year's winner.

Seven of the 50 awards presented to students outstanding in extra-curricular activities were major athletic awards won by Bruce Butcher, Pat Childerstone, Don Gillespie, Don McKenzie, Linda Ghezzel, Barbara Childerstone and Lois Underhill. Kathy Archibald, Doreen Campbell, Rudy Moyer, Jim Scanland, Beth Spall and Dick Lennie were awarded the major club awards. Minor award winners were Tom Bebb, Carol Evans, Ted Johnson, Sydney Kelly, John Logie, Kay Pearson, Alice de Pytfer, Ralph de Pytfer, H. Singh, Joyce Warren, Carol Wilson, J. Appleton, Audrey Birch, Bernice Coult, Barbara Herget, Brian Willows, Martha Brockman, Gwendy Lamont, Mar-Lou Lou, Merle McKenzie, P. Cummings, Dinny Pollard, Audrey James, Rose Schuk, D. Hickson and Barbara Ann Lander with special mention going to Vera Abbott, and Ida Caccaro, Marie Lyst, Karl Spahl, George Fry, Wayne Hubble and Larry Hewlett.

Academic awards were captured by Kathy Archibald and Marjorie Burnstill, grade 13; B. Elvedahl, Linda Ghezzel, Beth Spall and Doug Black, grade 12; P. Warren, L. Chushtoff, M. Piddocke, W. Hubble, grade 11; M. Foote, R. Frazawa, Joanne Braun, Irene Clarke, G. Kraft and L. Zbitnoff, grade 10.

Dennis Powell was the recipient of the agriculture award while commercial award winners were Vera Abbott, grade 12; A. Wuest, grade 11 and F. Lebitschnig, grade 10.

Rudy Moyer was presented with a scroll of honor by E. L. Morrison on behalf of the school board, for the honor he brought to the community by winning top honors at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto and W. Green presented the KART award for the Okanagan Speed Skating championship to Norman Gilchrist, who accepted it on behalf of KJHS which tied for first place with Vernon High school in the contest.

COUNCIL MEETING

Kelowna City Council meets tonight in Council Chambers at 8.00.

What does candidate need to win on first count?

What does a candidate need to be elected on the first count? Many people are now asking themselves this question.

How do you figure it?

Is it based on his majority over the combined votes of the other candidates or is it based on the absolute majority?

According to the elections act a candidate to be elected needs for the election an absolute majority which is defined as "the next whole number greater than one-half the total number of ballot papers reckoned at the closing of the count."

Instructions issued by the chief electoral officer explaining this says that to obtain the absolute majority you divide the total VALID (no spoiled ballots) ballots by one more than there are members to be elected and add to the result one.

APPLY FORMULA
Applying this formula to the last election here when Mr. Bennett was elected on the first count we find that:
Total voters were 12,413 but 543 ballots were rejected leaving a total valid vote of 11,870.
There is one member to be elected so to one we add one according to the election act, and obtain two.
The total number of VALID ballots are then divided by this figure 2. The result obtained is 5,935 which is exactly half the VALID

"An average housewife"

Mrs. Weddell gives reasons why she is carrying Pro Con banner in South Okanagan
"I am no politician but just an average housewife, who believes in stable, sane, economical and positive government enough to get out and fight for it!"
Thus Mrs. E. C. Weddell summed up her reasons in seeking the support of the electorate for the Progressive Conservative Party when she addressed a public meeting in the Orange Hall Friday evening. Mrs. Weddell, the candidate for South Okanagan in Tuesday's voting, was one of three speakers to place before the meeting the principles, aims and platform of the Progressive Conservative Party in B.C.

The other speakers were C. G. Beeston of Kelowna, president of the South Okanagan Progressive Conservative Association, and Arthur (Slim) McArthur of West Vancouver, federal PC candidate for the North Vancouver riding in the forthcoming national election, date for which has yet to be announced.

Appealing to all electors but especially to the women of the constituency, Mrs. Weddell claimed that "women in Canada today are 52 percent of the voting power and 85 percent of the spending power."

"I consider it is time for women to, if and when possible, offer themselves as candidates so that they may carry the share of the 'load of government,'" said Mrs. Weddell.

STRETCH DOLLARS
"I think older women, especially should accept their place in public life and in politics, when needed. Women fit well into this picture too, especially economically, because, after all, who is that is custodian of the credit and pay envelope in the average home?"
"It is the wife who answered herself. 'The husband has to work hard to make that pay cheque and the wife works doubly hard to make one dollar go as far as two'

Coronation films will be shown here this week

Coronation pictures in black and white will be shown at the Paramount Theatre Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week, according to Paramount Theatre manager W. Harper. The 20-minute Coronation film will be shown in addition to the regular program.
Mr. Harper also stated the colored Coronation pictures, "Elizabeth is Queen," presented by Associated British Pathé, will be at the Paramount on June 22-24. A special matinee will also be presented at 2 p.m. with evening showings at 7 and 9.15 p.m. The second picture, also made in England is "Raiders in the Sky," an exciting story of young heroes of "Bomber Command."

Few people offer odds election results; expect record number of people to vote

PREMIER W. A. C. BENNETT seeking re-election

MRS. E. C. WEDDELL Pro Conservative candidate

TOM WILKINSON C.C.F. standard-bearer

VICTOR WILSON carries Liberal colors

British Columbians march to the polls tomorrow to elect a new government and as the political drive neared its climax, few people are willing to wager odds on the outcome of Tuesday's election.

Four candidates are contesting Premier Bennett's home riding. Two of them are newcomers in the political field, while the CCF'er Tom Wilkinson and Mr. Bennett are veteran campaigners. Mrs. E. C. Weddell entered the four-way fight at the eleventh hour for the Progressive Conservative party, while Victor Wilson, of Naramata, is the Liberal standard-bearer.

In Kelowna, voting will take place at the Kelowna and District Memorial Arena. Polls open at 8.00 a.m., and will close 12 hours later. The first results from outside polls should start trickling in shortly before 9.00 o'clock, while initial returns from the Kelowna polls will be available about half an hour later.

An indication that a record number of people will go to the polls tomorrow was seen in the number who cast ballots at the advance poll held in the fire hall. Total of 161 people voted, compared with 134 at the advance poll held in the 1952 election.

There are 14,773 people on the election list in South Okanagan, and political observers estimate that close to 80 percent of these people will exercise their franchise. In last year's election in South Okanagan, 74.84 percent of the voters cast ballots, while in the 1948 provincial election, 78.95 percent voted.

Compared with other contests, the campaign in South Okanagan has been comparatively quiet. Candidates generally confined their remarks to the provincial level, and unlike other constituencies, personalities did not enter the local campaign.

PARTY LEADERS CONFIDENT
Political parties this morning are dusting off cob-webs of voting machinery so that campaign headquarters will have the results as soon as possible after the polls close.

Few people today are offering odds on who is going to win Tuesday's election, although all party leaders are confident. Standing at dissolution of the last house was Social Credit 19; CCF 18; Liberal 6; Conservatives 2; Labor 1, vacant 2. The CCF polled the largest first-choice votes a year ago, and seated 18 members, only one less than the government.

Social Credit supporters, however, admit that with the Conservatives deciding at the last minute to run a candidate, it will make it more difficult for the premier to win on the first count. Mr. Bennett's overall majority in the four-way-fight last year was 204 votes.

This is the third campaign that Mr. Wilkinson has carried the CCF colors. A veteran member of the movement, he has many friends, particularly in the agricultural field in the Okanagan.

TWO NEWCOMERS
Mr. Wilson, like Mrs. Weddell, is making his debut into politics. A former school teacher at Okanagan Mission, he is now a successful fruit grower of the Naramata area.

Mrs. Weddell, wife of a prominent Kelowna barrister, prominent community worker, and a resident of the Okanagan for around 32 years, has conducted a hard fight during her brief campaign, and her pleasant personality has won her many supporters.

From the provincial point of view few B.C. elections have boasted such critical individual contests as this one. And unless 25 candidates of one party are elected on the first count tomorrow, British Columbia will still have to wait for another three weeks to see which party will form a government.

Okanag'n Mission Girl Guide will be awarded Gold Cord

A 14-year-old Okanagan Mission girl will receive the highest award in the Girl Guides organization when the deputy chief commissioner for Canada makes her official visit here this week.

To be presented with the Gold Cord award is Louise Goldsmith of the First Okanagan Mission Guide Company. The presentation will take place during the Guide rally Tuesday evening in the Junior High School gym to honor the visit of Mrs. W. R. Nesbitt, of Toronto, the deputy chief commissioner. The rally will be only one of several functions being arranged as a tribute to the country's second highest officer in the Girl Guides. Upon her arrival Tuesday afternoon, from Penticton she will review all packs in the district at the Anglican Parish Hall at 3.30 p.m.

TO REWARD PATROL
A buffet supper has been arranged in Mrs. Nesbitt's honor at the home of Mrs. P. G. James, Royal Avenue, to which all association members have been invited.

The Guide rally to be highlighted by the presentation of the Gold Cord to Miss Goldsmith, will begin at 7.30 p.m. Parents are urged to attend the rally to get an insight into the work being done by the Girl Guide movement.

Also during the rally, the Guide patrol having made the highest marks during the whole year will be presented with the Commissioner's Cup by Mrs. G. R. Rannard, district commissioner. Just what patrol it will be won't be made known until the rally.

GUIDERS' LUNCHEON
A special Guiders' luncheon at the Eldorado Arms will be held at 1 p.m. Wednesday in honor of the deputy chief commissioner for Canada. Mrs. Rannard will drive Mrs. Nesbitt to Vernon afterwards.

With more than two major parties:

Only alternative voting system ensures majority rule

By Lawrence G. Ecroyd

(To clear up misunderstanding about the operation and purpose of B.C.'s alternative voting system, Vancouver Board of Trade has issued a pamphlet answering 12 main criticisms of the system. The Courier reprints the questions and answers as a public service.—Editor.)

Q—The voting system in federal elections works fine. Why change it here?

A—Does it work fine? Today in the federal House there are 121 members—that is to say, 45 percent—who were elected in 1929 with less than 50 percent of the votes cast. This was, of course, the result of having two or more opponents in these ridings. We may be represented by a large number of men who do not have a real mandate from the people. To carry this system through to logical absurdity, take the example of ten candidates were running for office. Suppose that the candidate who got the largest number of votes obtained 15 percent of the total. Under the old system he would be elected. There might be 85 percent of the voting public in that riding opposed to his election.

There might be a compromise candidate among the other candidates eminently acceptable to the large majority of voters. Under the old voting system of divide and conquer there is no flexibility. Q—Wasn't the alternative vote introduced as a trick to prevent the CCF from rightfully gaining power?

A—The alternative or transferable voting system is designed to increase the chance for majority wishes to prevail within any given constituency, when more than two parties are in the field. It is, therefore, not a "trick" but a wholly fair and logical method of serving the objectives of democracy.

There is no doubt that the CCF would have formed the government in B.C. in 1929 had the old voting system been in force. Would you say 30 percent of the votes cast is a majority? That's what the CCF had. Seventy percent of the voters chose free enterprise candidates—and over 60 percent of the seats were won by free enterprise members as a result.

Q—But this is a complicated system. Isn't the another way of curing the problem of a minority candidate winning power? A—Well, you could hold another election if no one obtains a more than 50 percent of the votes, eliminating the least popular candidate. If there are more than three candidates, re-elections might have to take place several times. This would be costly and a nuisance to the voter.

Besides, there is no guarantee that any time would be saved. This election system has been tried in about 16 countries at one time or another, but has been abandoned by almost all. The alternative voting system can hardly be called complicated. Contrary to general opinion prior to the election, only a small number—say five percent—of votes were spoiled. One might wonder of what value is a man's vote if he can't mark 1-2-3.

Q—Why wasn't so important a measure as a change in the voting system submitted to the people for approval?

A—Undoubtedly, less important issues have been referred to the people for an opinion as in the case of the sale of liquor by the glass and daylight saving time. What is generally not recognized is that these referenda are merely opinion polls and the government is not obliged to carry out the majority wishes so expressed. It remains the task of the legislators, within their constitutional powers, to determine in their own minds what is best.

If the voting public believes that a mistake has been made by its representatives, it has the power to rectify the situation at the voting polls. In this regard, it is significant that the only party which opposed the alternative vote dropped from 35 percent of the popular vote in 1929 to 30 percent in the first count in 1929. Under the old system the same counting as would have been in force had the old "X" system been used. Although a Liberal government adopted it, the Socialists have favored the alternative vote. In no way could the defeat of the old line parties be construed as rejection by the majority of voters of the alternative voting system.

Q—Won't my voting for second and third choices hurt the chances of my favorite candidate or party? A—No, it is absolutely and mathematically impossible for your alternative choices to hurt your favorite candidate's chances. This is not a system where first place gets so many points, second place so many, and so on.

Only first place choices are counted at the outset. If you are a candidate at the bottom of the poll on that first count and no one has more than 50 percent of the votes cast, your candidate is eliminated. Then your alternative choice comes into the picture. Therefore, by only marking one choice you waste your ballot should your candidate be low man. Because after he is eliminated, your ballot is discarded. You may have strong preference among the remaining candidates, but you have thrown away your chance of helping him.

Q—How possibly can a man in consequence vote for more than one candidate or party?

A—What you are suggesting, in effect, is that you are completely indifferent to what man or party gets in should your pet man fail to make the grade in popular support. This is not a reasonable argument. There is no compromise with conscience in voting for more than one party or candidate. You are merely saying, by your vote: "If my cherished beliefs or personal respect for one party or person cannot be realized, I am interested enough in public affairs to know that all is not

Q—If the alternative vote is so good, why did we have all the mess we did in B.C. last year?

A—It depends where you happen to be standing to obtain the view you get. If for instance you voted Liberal or Conservative, you could be disappointed not to have had your candidate returned to power. The fact is that from 61 percent of the popular vote, which old line parties together obtained in 1929, they dropped to 40 percent on the first count (same as old "X" system). The alternative vote cannot be blamed for such a loss of popular support. If you are a CCF-er and maintain your democratic views, you have no complaint. On the first count you got 30 percent of the popular vote, not enough to justify control of the house. True, Social Credit obtained less percentage, but they were strong in rural areas where the peculiarity of smaller numbers of voters gave them a slight edge in the seats.

The distribution of second and third choices altered the picture only to ensure that riding by riding no candidate obtained 50 percent on the first count, the people were able to exercise their will and provide themselves with a preferred compromise candidate. The alternative vote could not be blamed for the minority government. We would have had one under the old system representing only 30 percent of the votes.

Q—We were all fed up with the delay in election results. Why did we have to wait so long for the results in 1929?

A—Even under the old act, there was a three-week period following the election to allow time for absentee ballots to come in and be checked. We have a provision not found in other provinces where the alternative ballot is used. A voter who will be away from his home riding on election day, but somewhere in B.C. may vote at any voting poll he happens to be near.

A ballot with the names of his home riding candidates is used, and then sealed in an envelope, the outside cover of which carries the voter's signature. These envelopes are to be sent to be checked against the registration form which has the voter's signature on it.

Only then can the votes be counted and added to the totals of other votes. A three-week period is considered necessary owing to the long distances to be covered and sometimes primitive transportation in out-of-the-way polls.

Normally, such absentee votes amount to about three percent, but they have gone as high as 14 percent.

voter to vote in the advance polls which are held some days before-hand. Advance polls, under present legislation, may only be used by persons who are going to be out of the province on election day. With such an amendment there is no real reason why the results could not be made known within a matter of days, at the outside.

The single alternative vote provides the best means of ensuring that the will of the people, riding by riding, is best translated into election results.

Junior band will have symphony orchestra once members reach degree of proficiency in stringed instruments

By OLI DAUM

Once members of the Kelowna Junior Band reach some degree of proficiency in the stringed instruments, Kelowna will have its long-awaited symphony orchestra.

The achievement will fulfill two purposes—it will give those with a love for this type of music an opportunity to hear it more often while introducing it to others, and secondly, it will give more students the chance to learn to play a musical instrument.

Instrumental music is definitely on the upgrade and band leader Mark Rose has a lot of plans for his musicians. With continued support of the kind that he's been getting, chances are they will materialize, to the benefit of everyone.

There is an increasing interest on the part of a student to play instrumental music. This past year alone 65 students started on band instruments. If the same number started every year, and continued playing from grade seven until graduation, the band would have a membership of approximately 400. All could be accommodated if the group were split up to form two or three different bands but the cost of so many more expensive instruments makes this highly unlikely. However, by adding a number of stringed instruments to the band, more students will be given the opportunity to develop their talent and we will have a concert orchestra as well as a band.

GOOD ENTERTAINMENT
A band gives its audience entertainment—good entertainment—and to the performers it gives still more. Well, here first, to the saying that "there's 'ham' in every one," whether they admit it or not, and they derive a certain sense of satisfaction from the recognition that they receive as a band member. This develops a drive to gain continued recognition and in time, develops a fine musician. Secondly, they want to play an instrument to give room to their desires. At student age, a person usually recognizes a desire to produce music. A boy usually thinks that singing is too dainty for him and will not permit his dignity to suffer by taking up voice, however, by learning to play an instrument he satisfies his inspirations, and maintains or even improves his dignity. A boy's voice changes about this age as well so that even if he wanted to sing, he probably wouldn't be much of a sensation.

Concert orchestra will present some problems at first. One of the biggest will be the strings themselves. They are specialized instruments. They are the most difficult to play and require the most highly developed musical aptitude. In order to keep the whole orchestra at the same level, Mr. Rose hopes that after a year or so of practicing with the others, those playing stringed instruments—violins, cellos and basses—will take private lessons as well. The band itself will be kept at an adequate size and calibre for performance while another 40 or so each year will be put on strings.

"However, these are problems to be met once the concert orchestra is formed. Right now, the most important thing is to get the 'go-ahead' to carry out my plans," said Mr. Rose. To all appearances, one must be a salesman first and a band leader second.

If the band today (and its functions) is any indication of what we can expect from a concert orchestra, band leader Mark Rose shouldn't have any trouble selling his ideas.

On June 12, at 8:00 p.m. in the Senior High auditorium, the Kelowna Junior Band will present its annual concert. Next year at this time we may be hearing the Kelowna Junior Band and Symphony Orchestra.

Aquatic season officially opens next Wednesday

Gaiety and laughter of past seasons will once more ring through the Aquatic when the season is officially opened Wednesday with a fashion show and tea presented by the ladies' auxiliary in the afternoon and a dance, sponsored by the Aquatic directors, in the evening. Anticipation of the occasion has been mounting for weeks as those who recall last year's soirees prepare to get into the swing, once more and newcomers eagerly await their first outing at Kelowna's most popular social haunt.

The fancy stepping will be to the music of Pettman's orchestra.

What do Liberals term "responsible" government?

Throughout this election campaign the Liberals have used the slogan "Return to Responsible Government." By this is meant the return to government by the Legislature, not the Cabinet ... government by the representatives of the "people" not the top brass of the "movement."

Bruins snap Aces' win string, cut their lead to two points

A tighter defence and sharper passing meant the difference between victory and defeat for the Kelowna Bruins here Thursday as they downed the Salmon Arm Aces 19-17 and became the first team in the Interior Lacrosse Association this season to humble the front-running Aces.

Up to Thursday, Clancy Jameson's crew hadn't tasted defeat, having posted four decisive victories, one of them over Kelowna. Though the Aces held a slight edge in shots on goal it was the Bruins who had the more drive at the finish.

The win gave the Bruins six points in the league standing, consolidating their grasp on the runner-up spot and trimming the Aces' lead to two points.

With neither side showing any inclination for a kid gloves policy, the joust proved to be as rugged and hefty-hitting as they come. The battle swayed back-and-forth like a pendulum for almost the full 60 minutes, with the score tied up seven times.

The Aces proved the better in the early stages as Ken Ritchie, making his first appearance in goal in two years, fought off a case of jitters. Aces at one time held a three-goal advantage in the first quarter but the Bruins fought back for a 5-5 draw at the bell.

At the eight-minute mark of the second stanza the Bruins went ahead for the first time. By the end of the stanza the homesters had a 10-8 advantage but lost one of their key men.

Banished with a match misconduct for roughing referee Ron Wilkinson was John Ritchie. Ritchie, who had been in the game since the first minute was disallowed for stepping inside the crease.

With Dave Ritchie moving up from defence to take over brother John's place in the third, the Bruins elected to stress the defensive with a good offensive, and by harrasing and solid checking they kept the Aces scoreless for 10 minutes. But that one goal set the visitors on fire and before the quarter was over the Aces led 14-13.

ODD CLINCHER
The thrilling finale was started by a long shot by versatile Doug Griffin, moved up from goal to defence, that got by Dale Boutwell. Seconds later, Don Gillard, with his fourth goal of the night, put Kelowna in the van again. They lost it momentarily but regained it, the clincher coming in odd fashion when Dave Ritchie got his chance in the way of a relay by the goalie right at the goal mouth and flipped the ball into the net.

Ken Ritchie made stupendous saves in the last quarter as the Aces kept trying right up to the bell to get back into the game. They fired 15 shots his way but only three got past him, a feat that gained him several ovations from the crowd.

BOX BITS—In sharp contrast with the way the battlers banged one another around was the show of good sportsmanship by the Aces after the bell. They all shook hands with the BRUINS, congratulating them for their hard-gained win. Offensively, DON GILLARD, sparked the homesters with five goals and two assists. . . JOHN RITCHIE.

CHIEFS ALSO VICTORIOUS

Four homers help Orioles spill Okonots for first time in eight OMBL starts

It was a great day for Kelowna baseball lovers yesterday though the weather was hardly the type to pull crowds. In fact rain and threat of more put a crimp on nearly every other league game but the ones the Kelowna teams figured in.

Both Orchard City clubs were victorious while the Rutland Adanacs were denied a chance to play by the weatherman after making the trip to Princeton. The Orioles, in an Okanagan Mainline Baseball League game, did something they and no other league club had been able to do yet—beat the Kamloops Okonots. Four homers were knocked out as the Orioles notched a 7-4 victory to cut the Okonot's undefeated string at seven straight.

Meanwhile, before a small crowd that had to huddle under the sheltering roof during the last half of the game while the players finished the tilt in light rain, the Kelowna Chiefs, hammered the other Kelowna teams, the Monarchs, 9-1, in a B.C. Interior Baseball League game here.

Monarchs used three pitchers—Marshall for six innings, Gill for one and Hayes for two—in a vain attempt to hold the Chiefs in check. Meanwhile, big Steve Melnichuk had the visitors eating out of his hand, just as the decisive count indicates.

STANDINGS UNCERTAIN
Standings in the BCIBL are vague at the moment as President Art Gray of Rutland has been unable to learn whether the North Kamloops at Revelstoke game was postponed or defaulted. The North Kamloops nine didn't show up at Revelstoke as scheduled.

However, Princeton still is in the lead with 750 (3-1) with the Chiefs (and Revelstoke if Sunday's game was defaulted) in second with 688 (Chiefs have four wins and two losses).

The Rutland at Princeton game will be played now on July 1. Eddie Kiehliski was the winning pitcher and Bill MacDonald the loser in the OMBL fixture at Kamloops. Kiehliski gave up six hits, one a homer to Harry Maralia. Oriole sluggers nipped MacDonald for eight hits, including four-baggers by Cee-Favell, John Lingor, Bob Campbell and Bert Solloway.

All were base-empty homers except Lingor's, which came in the fifth with two mates aboard. In the only other OMBL tilt played, Ike Jackson pitched the Vernon Canadians to a 3-1 victory at Vernon over the Summerland Macs. Rain forced a halt to the encounter at the end of six.

Social Credit plants to add still more taxes to the already overstrained lumbering industry. Already their tampering with forest administration has resulted directly and indirectly in the closing of several small sawmills which provided employment in this area. Forestry provides a good income for this area. We cannot afford to lose this industry. High school principal hopes coronation-year grads can live in more peaceful world

Commemorating 12 years of formal studies, 104 graduates of the Kelowna Senior High School participated in the commencement exercises in the high school gym Friday afternoon. Two by two they filed into the flower-decked gymnasium and took their places in a semi-circle of seats with guest speakers and members of the teaching faculty seated in the centre. Trophies of the past year's contests were displayed on a robed platform.

Opening the ceremonies, principal James Logie extended the hope that with the Coronation marking a new era, the graduates of today can go forward into a more peaceful world and he paid tribute to the teachers who have endeavored to show the students how to take their place in adult life as good citizens.

A. S. Matheson, of the department of education, E. L. Morrison, vice-chairman of the school board and Mayor J. J. Ladd also addressed the graduates wishing them success and happiness in future life. They were advised by Mr. Matheson to adjust themselves to changing conditions, to hold on to inner stability, and to place their trust and themselves in God's hands.

Mayor Ladd's message suggested that the graduates take advantage of all the education they can. "We're proud of you," he said, "you're all Canadians and I hope you always will be. You have a fine heritage, many wonderful opportunities and Canada needs you." Linda Gherzi, a member of the graduating class favored the audience with a piano solo.

GLORIOUS DAY
"At last, the glorious day has arrived. We are proud—but humble when we realize the vast amount we have still to learn and the amount which we will, perhaps, never learn to comprehend," opened the valedictory address delivered by Lloyd Morin. "In a world of chaos, unrest and war, survival is uppermost in mind. It will be part of our task to help utilize scientific discoveries for the betterment rather than the destruction of mankind but whatever the future, we are better equipped for it because of the study and training given us in KHS."

"For this we thank our parents for their encouragement, financial help, advice and even rebuke when it was necessary. We thank our teachers and counsellors and above all, we thank God for all the moments in the world, we are a part of which, which need feel inferior to no other."

To the younger students he asked that KHS be kept tops in study and sports, but above all, tops in sportsmanship. Graduates were introduced by Miss Nancy Gale, senior matriculation; Walter Green, Robert McLeod, Miss M. Dean, D. S. Wood and J. Doell, junior matriculation teachers. Selections by the Kelowna Junior Band were followed by the presentations of awards to the "Quiet" speakers, Mrs. T. F. McWilliams. She pointed out to the graduates that they were fortunate in graduating in Coronation year for they have a fine example of service set by The Queen to follow. Up to now, the students have been travelling many avenues but now they will have to choose only one. It may be in a profession, business, industry, politics or in a home but which ever it was, she stressed that they study and become aware of other people and their needs.

"You will no doubt encounter many conflicts but your basic concepts have not changed. Just remember that it isn't the choosing between black and white that is difficult—it's the choosing between those things which are almost equal."

Mrs. McWilliams stressed the fine opportunities open in the campaign field—the powers which can be put into use for good—atomic powers, electronics and engineering, etc., those open in the field of arts, all of which serve humanity.

"We are all part of the whole history. Just as Queen Elizabeth II received her crown from these before her and just as she will pass it on to those who come after her, so do you get what others left you and you will hand it on to those who follow you. May God bless you all," she concluded.

MADE PRESENTATION
Presentation of the cocktail shaker, to Mrs. Guy DeHart at "Crown Imperial" was made by Mrs. Dave Anderson, president of KHS. It was previously stated that Bert Johnston made the presentation.

"Secret" Orders in Council exposed
Until the Social Credit government came into power, it was considered a matter of good taste that many Orders in Council should not be given publicity. These are Orders dealing with subjects of a personal nature, affecting the lives of individuals. However, these Orders, which were always made available to the Leader of the Opposition who could give publicity to them if he thought it advisable.

Some of these personal subjects might be mentioned here. For example, if a person from another province becomes mentally ill while in this province he is sent to Esquimalt and is later sent to his own province. An Order in Council is required to make this transfer. Until Social Credit came into power, it was considered a matter of good taste that such an order should not be given publicity.

Again—sometimes Oakalla Jail becomes crowded and prisoners are required to be transferred elsewhere. An Order in Council is required in respect of each such transfer. Until the Social Credit changed the regulations, such transfers were not considered public property.

Again—when some unfortunate young person has been committed to BISCO, he or she may prove bad representing the Progressive Conservative Party," the candidate lauded the new party leader, Deane Finlayson, his "dynamic" manner and the confidence he inspires.

"For 31 years I have voted Progressive Conservative and I consider that most of the time that party offered, first and foremost, stability in government."

"We say in our homes today that children, to become well-balanced adults, must have security. Well, I say that adults, to have well-balanced lives, must have stability in government," she said with emphasis.

"CHAOTIC STATE"
Belittling criticism levelled at "the old line parties," she contended there never was a "more chaotic state of government in B.C. than at the present time."

"Let us not sabotage our magnificent province from within by inertia," Mrs. Weddell exhorted, "because just as surely as I am standing here, by doing nothing constructive or positive for the political life of our province, is sabotage certainly as if we bombed and burned at will." She emphasized that part of the party platform dealing with education, stressing that no other party in B.C. has brought forth a plan like the Conservatives who advocate that the municipality's share towards financing education not exceed nine mills over their current levy on a basis of 100 percent on land and 75 percent on improvements.

The Progressive Conservative Party is fighting for freedom of the individual, and free enterprise, without which no achievement of note can be attained," she concluded.

"I am proud to join that fight and help keep alive the heritage that was begun with such vision and self sacrifice and handed on to us with such high hope."

"WINNIE" CAMPAIGN
Crediting Mrs. Weddell with carrying on the campaign in an "amazing, winning manner," Mr. Beeston said "we're extremely fortunate to have her for our candidate."

He compared the situation in the province today to that of a year ago when no place in the province, he said, a year ago, he said, the people were in "a state of bewilderment and in many cases the vote cast was not a thoughtful one, but an emotional one."

"You could feel a surge towards Social Credit," he asserted, "that has no place in the province. There is no such surge today. Social Credit is now definitely on the defensive trying to explain their very obvious errors of omission and commission," said Mr. Beeston.

To the claim made by the Social Credit party that their opponents were using "sneaky tactics," Mr. Beeston responded on behalf of the Progressives that this was untrue, "a perversion of fact."

"We are criticizing the Social Credit tenure of office. That is permissible. It is our right," he asserted. He described the "political dishonesty" the withholding of information on the legislation concerning the liquor act and described as "absolute nonsense" claims that to save the country from the CCF the Social Credit candidates should be elected.

NO CCF "DANGER"
"There is no danger whatsoever of a CCF government," Mr. Beeston declared.

He opined the CCF would take some ridings but that the party's grasp on the people was slipping. "It is a dispirited campaign (the CCF) has been running," he said, "the answer to socialism is not the Social Credit but the Progressive Conservative Party."

Briefly explaining the party's stand on lumbering, roads and agriculture, Mr. Beeston urged his listeners to be "radiating points" to get others to come out and provide a strong and winning vote for Mrs. Weddell.

Introduced by the chairman of the meeting, H. A. Truswell, as the "head of organized labor in North Vancouver," Mr. McArthur was the final speaker of the evening. Mr. Truswell said the Progressive Conservatives had shown "superb judgment" in choosing him in the labor riding to beat James Sinclair, Liberal incumbent.

SOLD ON TORVISM
Mr. McArthur, who stands six feet, eight inches, and has a booming baritone voice to go with his stature, explained in brief why "I'm proud to be called a Tory!"

The bespectacled speaker cited several "firsts" by Conservative administrations that aided the cause of labor. He contended that in spite of the "sneak" against the party for the last 17 years, the Tories' policies and platforms are compatible with labor's aims and desires.

He pointed with pride to the party's present platform dealing with labor, where a PC administration advocates the introduction of an equal pay for equal work acts in vogue in Ontario where the PCs have been governing for years. He claimed no other party had ever proposed this in B.C.

"I am sold on what the Tories want to do, not only for labor, but for all individuals," Mr. McArthur declared.

"We will fight for the individual freedom of our citizens," he promised in conclusion, predicting that Mrs. Weddell would be the next member of the legislative assembly for South Okanagan.

Grads of '53 are honored at banquet

Laughter, good fellowship and a turkey dinner with all the trimmings highlighted the graduation banquet in the school cafeteria, honoring the grads of '53, members of the faculty and guests, but amid all the laughter, graduates were silently wishing one another a fond farewell and success for the future.

President Rudy Meyer proposed the toast to The Queen. Toast to the graduating class was given by Harvey Markling, class of '51, to which Jean Coutts replied. Response to the toast to the school board, proposed by Beth Spall, was given by Mrs. M. McFetridge, who remarked that whatever difficulties the school board had encountered, it was always repaid in the fine class of graduates.

In his response to the toast to the school, given by Jim Scantland, R. McLelland revealed that he, too, was a graduate of Kelowna Senior High school—the only one on the teaching staff and he compared the present graduates' environment and opportunities with those which were available at his graduation. "I envy you for the many opportunities open to you,"

he said as he listed a goodly number. "There are a great many but no one can tell you where they are. You alone must find them and then, make the best of them. In that way you will become good citizens and good graduates of your school and mine."

Rudy Meyer, 1952-53 president of the student council, presented the gavel to the new president, Don Bennett.

Entertainment was provided by a band quartette of Lloyd Morin, Miles Trendgold, Bill Hooverman, and Bill McCarthy, accompanied on the piano by Jean Carlson and by Joyce Warren, who rendered a vocal solo.

VOTE SOCIAL CREDIT FOR GOOD GOVERNMENT

This advertisement is published by the Campaign Committee of the Social Credit League of B.C.

HON. W. A. C. BENNETT
Premier of British Columbia

r.p.m.'s column

Somehow I found I was in the middle of a discussion on voting. It was a question of whether to vote or not to vote.

The idea of compulsory voting crept in. Should the state institute compulsory voting, that is, should it be made a duty as well as a right and a privilege? And should the duty to vote be made compulsory in the same manner as is the duty to pay taxes?

I was inclined to say Yes, but the other side of the argument, whom I'll call Mrs. AB, said No. And she made her point forcefully.

"I am one of those," she said,

"who, according to you, are either too lazy, too stupid or too indifferent to walk to the polling booth to exercise her franchise."

Perhaps you are right. I may be lazy and stupid, but indifferent—well, if any politician wishes to discover how indifferent I am, all he has to do is to attempt to introduce compulsory voting. I promise you, I will then not only turn out to the polls for the first time in ten years to vote 'agin him' but I will also mount a soap box and sound off in a loud voice. Thus with my feminine logic (such as it may be) I attempt to demonstrate to you why I believe that the power of one's franchise is in the possessing of it.

"When only sixty percent of the electorate vote," she continued, "it does not, as you believe, signify that only sixty percent are exercising their franchise. The actual exercising of the franchise has no relation to the physical effort of walking to a polling booth. It merely means that the points at issue are either sufficiently clear, or being clear, are not sufficiently important to forty percent of the electorate so they have done the intelligent thing—they have 'passed' their right to vote."

"But make no mistake. In this very act of passing, this forty percent have exercised their franchise. For as long as this forty percent retain the privilege to either 'pass or vote, they have to be reckoned with by those seeking office."

"Our democratic privilege is the right, not merely to vote, but to vote or not as we see fit. Voting is a sacred undertaking and to vote merely because someone says we must regardless of whether we can make an intelligent X on the ballot is to degrade that which is sacred."

"I value my franchise. I would extend myself to protect it. But I only wish to vote when I can do so intelligently. And let's face facts. With most issues and with most candidates, it is impossible for the great percentage of us to get sufficient facts to make intelligent decisions."

"So, my little fat friend," says Mrs. AB to me, "speaking as one of the forty percent who have not been voting, you may understand though we may appear to be sleeping, we can always be awakened."

Well, let's get something straight right away, Mrs. AB. Unintelligent, humorless and doltish I may be. But fat I am not. So when you call me that, smile. See?

And now for your logic. You can talk me down; you think faster and talk faster than I. So if I backed away from our conversation, I'll make my reply here.

A housewife intelligent enough and aware enough to marshal points as you have done is in a strange position, it seems to me, when she confesses that she hasn't voted in ten years.

Here are some—and only some—of the provincial issues in elections during the past ten years: the sale of liquor, hospital insurance, highway construction program, education costs, hydro electric development, forest management program, provincial sales tax.

Do you really mean, Mrs. AB, that as an elector you weren't interested in a single one of those? And do you really mean that you couldn't get "sufficient facts" to make an intelligent decision on them? Why, the newspapers were filled with columns of type on all of them. Candidates discussed them at every political meeting.

If you failed to inform yourself, it wasn't because the information wasn't available. It was because you failed to avail yourself of the opportunity to find out.

And you sound a pathetic little note when you mention all those great big issues which poor little you are incapable of understanding because they are so intricate. However, I do not believe you. You are intelligent enough, all right. I think you just haven't bothered, that's all.

But the real point is: Can we function properly in a democracy if we permit people not to be bothered and don't believe the politicians who make the laws are concerned with the people who stay at home on election day. Because they're not. They're interested in the ones who come out and vote.

Suppose you do not believe in public schools supported by public tax money. Would you say then that you should have the right not to pay school taxes?

However, dull and doltish though I may be, I am going to let you alone, Mrs. AB. The remarks made in our conversation by me were directed at the apathetic and the lazy. I don't believe you are either. It seems to me you're just stubborn.

Letters to the Editor

NOT JOINT MEETING

The Editor, Kelowna Courier.

"Dear Sir—I would like to call your attention to an error in your paper's report of a general meeting of the Westbank Local BCFGA held in the Community Hall, Westbank, on the evening of May 26."

Under date of May 28 you report on a "joint meeting of Westbank and Peachland BCFGA." This was not a joint meeting but a general meeting of the Westbank Local. People other than Westbank members of the BCFGA were visitors.

Speaking of two resolutions which were passed by the meeting, you say: (page 8, paragraph 2) "Mr. Garrish had no opportunity of commenting on them until after they were passed." This statement is incorrect as everyone who attended the meeting including Mr. Garrish and including visitors had ample opportunity to speak and were so advised, repeatedly, by the chairman.

I would ask you to give the same publicity to this correction as you have already given to the incorrect report of the Westbank meeting.

Truly yours,
F. L. WHITEWORTH CLARKE
(MRS. F. W. CLARKE,
Secretary-treasurer,
Westbank Local BCFGA.)

The Editor, Kelowna Courier.

Dear Sir—Once upon a time, far, far into the future, it so happened that the results of an election in our great and glorious country showed that none of the political parties could form a government because no party had a clear majority. The date of this happening is so belated by time that no one living today will live to see it and even the youngest of the youngest parents may not see it either. However, it was admitted by all concerned that there was no use taking it back to the people because the same thing was bound to happen time and time again.

The elected representatives of the people met in session in order to try and find some way out of their dilemma. One quiet man in the assembly, after listening attentively for days, timidly rose to his feet and asked, "Would it not seem reasonable to assume that we, as representatives of our constituency, have been elected to represent the people of those constituencies? Can we not then, forget our party differences and all work together, passing that which is good for our people and throwing out that which is not good?"

Cries of shame and traitor to the

Will drownings be increased in Okanagan?

Out of the Government allocation of funds to Pro-Rec last year, nearly $1,000 was spent in the Okanagan Valley on swimming instruction. This year, as a result of the Sacred policy of "Economy At Any Price," and the consequential slashing of the Pro-Rec appropriation, no money will be made available for this instruction.

How many tragic deaths by drowning have been averted through swimming instruction? Is not the Social Credit Government now playing with human lives under the guise of "Economy With Efficiency?"

The Liberal party, realizing the importance and necessity of good health for all peoples of the province, have pledged to give Pro-Rec the same support they have always given it since it was started by them in 1934. On June 9 vote for Victor Wilson, Liberal candidate for the South Okanagan, and return responsible government to the Province of B.C.

Authorized by the South Okanagan Liberal responsible government Campaign Committee.

party, gasps of astonishment from the gallery followed by a stunned silence of all those present. The quiet little man looked wildly around and then with an effort drew himself together and continued, "Honorable gentlemen, I think we must honestly admit that there is something good in all of our platforms. I'm sure that most of the electors, if they would think for a moment, will concede that they, in electing a government, are much more interested in good legislation than in what party makes it a law. Let us then fulfill the obligation we have to those people and govern accordingly."

Silence: now the picture fades, made dim by time and space, begoggled by prejudice and bold intrigue, grown dark and blurry as if on a television screen, streaked with snow, it clears and fades again, still there but unintelligible, awaiting yet the touch or voice of one small man, who by his firm belief in what is right might sway a continent.

No seer am I to prophecy, or quote, but look into the future as you will, one thing is clear concerning those who vote "those" call the tune must pay the bill.

What future holds, no man may clearly see. 'Tis left to visualize and hold faith that, supreme as it guides the universe may raise the veil and all may know regarding which might stem from one small man who has the will to stand and face the multitudes.

Yours truly,
BRYAN COONEY.

PHILPOTT SPEECH

The Editor, Kelowna Courier.

Dear Sir—Please permit me to comment upon the recent speech of Mr. Elmore Philpott in Kelowna at which I was a listener. I would first give credit to him as a very smart educationalist, confident in his own right, but what a pity his talents are not being used for the uplift of humanity.

Mr. Philpott is living entirely within a world of his own and can never be of any benefit to the common people, his profession for Lib-eralism is liberal only to the class who glory in power.

His excellent distortion of half truths of the Social Credit philosophy, and his admonition to his listeners to so use the preferential ballot as to destroy its effectiveness for those parties concerned, although the Liberal Party itself placed it upon the statute books of B.C. prior to the last election, shows very plainly the mind of the man to whom we were listening on behalf of the Liberal candidate for South Okanagan.

His pathetic efforts to bring monetary reform into the provincial campaign, although Social Credit candidates have promised only good and honest government for B.C. should have been left to more capable hands to explain. It will now be interesting to see on June 9 next whether John Citizen thinks like Mr. Philpott that Social Credit is phony, or not.

creased. There is no partition in the movement." Then he gave government employees a pat on the back. "Ninety nine percent of them are doing a good job," he said.

FEDERAL ELECTION
The Liberals have no thought in winning the B.C. election, he said. "There is going to be a federal election in August and all they want is to set up an organization for the dominion election." Later he took another dig at the federal government. "Before the last June election, B.C. had only one federal cabinet minister. After the election you shook them so much, they gave us two cabinet members. And after this election you should get anything you want."

During the course of his address, Premier Bennett frequently predicted that the Socialists would sweep the province in tomorrow's election. He said more people had attended Social Credit meetings than the other three parties combined. "The government that was born on August 31, 1952 is destined to stay in office 50 years," he said. He referred to the taunts and tirade of abuse from the opposition parties, stating they had been called everything from Hitler, Mussolini and Stalin, and charged that the opposition had used the legislature for a sounding board for the next election "which they knew would come."

"In all the debates, no Social Credit ever lost his temper. No it was the smiles they couldn't take," he said.

CORONATION TRIP
Blaming the opposition for forcing the election, Mr. Bennett said that he and Mrs. Bennett had looked forward to attending the Coronation and that records will show that travel arrangements were made for the trip. "So why should we be held responsible for an election. How could 18 members be responsible for an election against a combined total opposition of 27?"

He questioned how former CCF leader Harold Winch could have formed a government when it was later revealed Mr. Winch had tendered his resignation as CCF leader two weeks before he went to the lieutenant governor.

Mr. Bennett defended the Rolston formula on education and said it is the greatest insurance policy the school boards, P.T.A. groups and school teachers ever had, adding the plan would be reviewed every year and adjustments made accordingly.

DOPE RING
At his meeting in Rutland Thursday night, Premier Bennett revealed that "the biggest dope ring in the province" existed right in Oakalla jail prior to the rioting last year, and that the riot developed when the government backed Warden Christie in cutting it out.

"We found that the trustees were in control of the jail," he said, "and before the jailers were able to do anything with them, they had to let them carry on their (drug) traffic. Warden Christie wanted to stop it," the premier said, "and we told him to go ahead, so we had a riot in the jail, but the traffic was stopped."

The premier's explanation of last October's troubles at Oakalla put a brand new light on the subject. His statements were backed up by Attorney General Robert Bonner in Vancouver.

Basic industries

Throughout B.C.'s basic industries, lumbering and mining, there is fear of the future not caused alone by changing patterns in world markets, but by the possibility, in fact, the certainty, of further taxation burdens if the Social Crediters are returned to power. Increased taxation of forest resources and mining does NOT affect ONLY shareholders and executives of lumber and mining companies, it threatens the continued employment and prosperity of 40,000 woodworkers and thousands of miners as well, and all the employees in services allied to these industries, and all the residents of communities dependent upon those industries.

Throughout the entire field of organized labour and in trade union circles in this province, there is a great apprehension about what the future holds; in the event that we should have widespread industrial strife this summer; because those men know better than anyone else that the labor department is not capable of dealing with such a situation, as a direct result of Social Credit tampering with that department and the administrative set-up therein.

The Liberal party have pledged themselves to restore the Labor Relations Board on a full time basis, to amend the Workmen's Compensation Act along the lines recommended by Chief Justice Gordon Sloan and to revise the I.C. & A. Act at the next session of the Legislature, as part of their labour platform. "You can do your part to restore responsible government to this province by supporting this Liberal platform and voting Victor Wilson number 1 on June 9."

Authorized by the South Okanagan Liberal responsible government Campaign Committee.

Provincial taxes to be raised

Provincial taxes were not increased by over five million dollars this year solely because the six Liberal members of the Legislature voted unanimously against the increases proposed by the Social Credit government. This province does not require any new taxation measures which will increase the present tax burden. Each year the annual budget has shown a healthy surplus, which would indicate that instead of raising taxes they should be reduced, and that is exactly what the Liberal party proposes to do. These reductions have not been justified in the past but now with the scores of new industries coming to the province we seem to be assured of a continuance of substantial revenues and reasonable reductions seem now to be in order.

The Liberal party proposes to take the sales tax entirely off meals. The sales tax will be eliminated on all sales less than thirty cents. The B.C. Liberal party realizes that motor cars no longer are a luxury and that inordinately high taxes are no longer justified. Consequently the Liberals propose a standard licence fee of ten dollars.

These are some of the reductions in taxation as proposed by the Liberals. But the Liberals also say

The support of people from all walks in our riding to the cause which the New Liberal Party stands for has been most heart-warming. I feel so completely grateful and humble at the wonderful rallying of new interest in Liberalism, and the obvious desire people have for the stability born of government which, while maintaining a democratic standard, will preserve that which is imperative to all of us... free enterprise.

To you citizens who have taken the time out to work for and support me, and above all to think things out, and who will vote for me tomorrow, let me say today... Thanks To You... for having the courage of your convictions and faith in me.
